KITCHEN KARMA Industrial designer Karim Rashid has teamed with Italian kitchen manufacturer Rastelli to create Karan, a versatile, modular collection of islands, peninsulas, tables, wall systems and more that can be installed in various configurations. Materials include aluminum, glass, composite wood, stainless steel, ceramic and oak. rastellicucine.it

editor's PICKS

▲ ANCIENT CRAFT Bond, a new bath-fittings collection, represents a collaboration between Waterworks and New York design firm Gachot Studios. The minimalist line encompasses three designs that have been engraved using an Old World technique called guilloché, commonly employed on jewelry and clocks. waterworks.com

▼ BY THE SEA The luminous, iridescent allure of mother-of-pearl inspired Native Trails' Lido collection of glass vessel sinks. Though they conjure beach walks among the seashells, each basin is fashioned of spun Murano glass. Available in four finishes; Abalone is pictured. nativetrailshome.com
