HUDSON COMPANY

"I've been dreaming about replacing the floors in my house for a while; they're old and not in great shape. When I saw the beautiful options from Hudson Company - from rustic reclaimed pine to more modern wide plank in white oak - I immediately swooned. Now, I just have to narrow down which stunning finish I want in my own house."

TERRITORY $116

Just because we're not getting out much anymore doesn't mean that we shouldn't keep up our jewelry game.

THE SECOND LEVEL contains the bedrooms and the master suite. There is more privacy from the nearby park, but also the benefit of open views over it and down the canal. Here, Brooke brought in a lot of great lighting and layers to pull the spaces together. The guest bedroom and master suite are similar in style, with calming blue hues and cozy textures. There is also a bunkroom, encouraging weekend visitors to stay and enjoy all of the lovely indoor/outdoor spaces.

FINALLY, there's the third level, which was created to encompass all of the other facets of Scottie's lifestyle. There is the office, a yoga room, a sauna and spa, as well as a rooftop that's perfectly suited for a morning meditation or an evening happy hour with friends. Though there's a lot happening on this level, it all works well together. "The third-floor was definitely a concern," Christopher recalls. "But, it was also an opportunity to help maximize a smaller space that was useable to the homeowner. This is also a moment we are excited about because we feel we achieved this and really made a special home not only to the homeowner but a timeless one that a lot of people can identify with."
